

The constitution was written in September 17, 1787 and ever since things were added to protect us American citizens. We as people remember how well it's been treating us. We no longer suffer like the old days.. Scared, confused and just wanting our voices to be heard. We appreciate how the constitution protects us. I can say what I want and how I feel, I no longer need to stay slight for things that are not ok. I don't fear that my words will be pushed down and hidden because I have The Constitution. But really The constitution is in my everyday life that's how i get through, I am protected by the constitution. I am protected for so many things. I have the right to believe in my own religion. I don't need to follow everyone. What my own religion is that's for me to figure out and not to be pushed for something I don't agree with or believe I don't have to fear if the government is going to over power us and our voices. Also part of the constitution I CAN NOT be searched unlawfully, I can say no to being searched, if they do not have a warrant i have the right to say no to the authority. I can also have a lawyer when I feel like I need one. It is not about hiding stuff and not wanting to go to jail, it's about being protected and knowing what you have. If I am underage and I get pulled over I can have my parents right there with me helping me with stuff I don't know. If I was by myself and they asked to search my car and if I didn't know that I could say no they could use anything against me. Back then soldiers could enter your house without saying anything and I would imagine that could be terrifying but now they can't enter your house without reasoning and you can also say no. All the thing that happened in the past and it wasn't right we learn from those and know back then half the stuff wasn't ok and now we put it somewhere for everyone to know that either its ok or no longer ok, There are so many things in the constitution that give me freedom.. Like freedom of speech, freedom of religion, right to bear arms to make myself feel safe, Saying no to a soldier walking into my house. There's also a right to a lawyer and if I can't pay for one they need to give me one if I ask for it. Having the constitution makes me an american citizen feel safe and protected. The thing I love about the constitution is that there is a legislative branch, executive branch, and judicial branch and if one of them ever wanted full power blood vessels are similar because they are the passageways of the body and they allow things to travel and move around just like what the endoplasmic reticulum does in the cell. the other 2 would make sure that it would get full power over anything. The reason why I like having three judicial branches is because in the past the ruler would decide what is best for everyone and not let anyone have a say, but having three branches helps prevent there to ever be one ruler and for them to over power us and our voices. With just that makes me feel safe and secure knowing we will not be overruled.
